Medical Malpractice in Pennsylvania is the longest running text on the subject and has been authored by Cliff Rieders from its inception. It is an encyclopedic work, very conducive to being accessed from the internet. It is fully searchable with Table of Contents.

The text is unique in that it includes a great many Common Pleas cases as well as statutory material.

Much of the information contained within Medical Malpractice in Pennsylvania is available nowhere else.

The Financial Responsibility Law is a text authored by Cliff Rieders for almost 20 years. Cliff was involved in the writing and creation of the Mcare Act. The complex Financial Responsibility Law is broken down in great detail, especially with respect to underinsurance, which generates a great deal of case law.

The Law Firm has determined, in the interest of the Bench and Bar, to make the texts available without charge. Contents of the books may not be reproduced or utilized by those who download it or other parties without the express permission from the author. Both books are copyrighted.

Cliff Rieders has served in many Bar roles over the years, and continues as a member of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court's Rules Committee and Standard Jury Instruction Committee. He has an active practice in both Williamsport and Haverford, Pennsylvania.

Cliff practices throughout the state and federal courts in the Commonwealth, and is admitted in both New York State and the District of Columbia, together with the relevant federal courts, as well as the United States Supreme Court.

Rieders is a noted author, speaker, and trial lawyer.
